Pharmacy's Fantastic when the Marrows Aplastic: Pharmacologic Management of Aplastic Anemia

Session Date: 08/30/2022

Session Time: 11:00 – 11:45 AM (CST)

Target Audience

This continuing education (CE) session was planned to meet the needs of professional staff who deal with the selection and monitoring of medication(s) as part of their patient care duties, including pharmacists, RNs, APRNs, PAs, MDs.

Activity Overview

Aplastic anemia is a rare, life-threatening form of bone marrow failure that most frequently occurs in the first 30 years of life. Treatment modalities have evolved over the past two decades, and pharmacologic therapy has been refined to provide better outcomes for patients. Given the complex drug interactions and unique toxicities associated with therapy, pharmacists, and other health care professionals play an important role in ensuring safe and effective treatment for patients. This presentation will review the pharmacologic treatment options for aplastic anemia including key studies that support and guide therapies used today.

Learning Objectives

At the conclusion of this knowledge-based CE session, participants should be able to:

1. Describe the underlying pathophysiology driving the development and progression of aplastic anemia
2. Outline treatment options based on patient specific factors
3. Recognize key toxicities, drug interactions, and administration considerations for patients receiving immunosuppressive therapy
