Transplanting New Ideas: Updates in Cytomegalovirus Prophylaxis in Solid Organ Transplantation

Session Date: 12/19/2023

Session Time: 11:00 – 11:45 AM (CST)

Target Audience

This continuing education (CE) session was planned to meet the needs of professional staff who deal with the selection and monitoring of medication(s) as part of their patient care duties, including pharmacists, RNs, APRNs, PAs, MDs.

Activity Overview

Cytomegalovirus (CMV) disease is associated with a significant risk of morbidity and allograft injury in solid organ transplant (SOT) recipients with active viral replication frequently necessitating hospitalization for treatment associated with notable toxicities. Optimization of CMV prophylaxis is crucial in minimizing these risks post-transplantation. Valganciclovir is the current standard of care for the prevention of CMV disease in at-risk SOT recipients; however, use is complicated by myelosuppression and renal dose adjustments. These complications risk interruptions in CMV prophylaxis and suboptimal dosing of valganciclovir and immunosuppressive therapies. This presentation will explore recent evidence for the use of letermovir for primary CMV prophylaxis in SOT recipients, identify letermovir's place in therapy, and highlight the practical considerations for use of letermovir in clinical practice.

Learning Objectives

At the conclusion of this knowledge-based CE session, participants should be able to:

1. Describe the current standard of care for primary cytomegalovirus (CMV) prophylaxis in solid organ transplant (SOT) recipients
2. Evaluate outcomes associated with letermovir use for primary CMV prophylaxis in SOT recipients
3. Identify letermovir's place in therapy and practical considerations for use in clinical practice
